

Art to spread the word

You know it's important to keep our water clean, now it's time to help other people understand why it's important. Create a poster to help spread the word.

Include information on your creation about why we should work to keep our water clean and how people can help. When your picture is completed, hang it someplace where people will see it. You could ask your teacher to hang it up at school, or an adult to hang it up at their work. Maybe you can hang in the lobby of your apartment building or at a community center. You can also email us a picture of your creation at water.education@kcmo.org
